Please read this first! Welcome to the classical guitar forum. Maximum filesize per attachment: 4 MB (PDF), 2 MB (MP3), 320 KB (JPG, GIF and PNG). I see it as needing a gentle tempo and expressive style and think it's often played at too fast a tempo. This forum is moderated a posteriori, i.e. the messages are read by the moderators after their publication. If you play it faster make sure it's smooth. To remain a member you need to post at least one message per month, on average, and log in to the forum at least once per year. If something doesn't, then rethink your fingering. 54 Topics 397 Posts Last post Plegaria - Guillermo Gomez by samoiedo View the latest post Tuesday 24 May 2022, 19:21 pm Page 11 Ad blocker detected: Our website is made possible by displaying online advertisements to our visitors. I'm not saying there's no place for rubato—the Poco menu section can do with a less rigid tempo. Am considering Dr Simon Powis via Skype, have to see how the cash flow goes. Then, practice the treble notes separately, just playing the trebles softly, the way he does. This forum displays advertisements to cover its technical costs. If the works are protected, post your recordings on Youtube. (Julian Bream's 1967 recording clocks in at about 68.) This is should be a study in perpetual motion. Usernames should not be company names. Specifically I'm wondering about the RIGHT hand. Tom Poore South Euclid, OH USA Page 2 279 Discussions relating to the classical guitar which don't fit elsewhere. For example, I'm flip-flopping in M3 between playing the last 4 eighth notes (g-f-e-d above and e-g-f-a below) with: 1) a/n/a/n/ (above) p/p/p/p (below) versus 2) a/a/a/a and p/p/p/p Any suggestions? Yanking about the tempo violates the piece's essential nature. As you work out the left hand fingerings, you must listen carefully for any awkwardly clipped notes. This piece is in cut time. Whether you are an amateur guitarist, an eternal beginner or a professional, you will find friendliness, competence and a wide range of resources here. kirolak Posts: 1007 Joined: Friday 16 October 2015, 17:04 pm Location: South Africa Post by kirolak » Thursday 05 January 2017, 11:15 am Thanks, Lawler!
